Romney Meets Heckling After Talk Near Flint

FLINT (AP) — Attentive, but unresponsive, a crowd of about 100 listened as Republican Gov. George Romney stood in the middle of a Flint parking lot Friday and swung away at union leaders and Democratic legislators.

His campaign caravan had wheeled into the Hamdy Brothers Shopping Center in Burton Township, a heavily Democratic Flint suburb, for a rally set up by Genesee County Republicans.

But supporters of Romney's opponent, Zoltan Ferency, were already there passing out literature and greeting shoppers in the name of their leader.

Romney seized a microphone and began reciting the accomplishments of his administration. He criticized the political activities of unions and accused Democratic legislators of spending recklessly and catering to special interest groups.

The governor turned to leave when 25-year-old Ted Gallinat of Clio, a committeeman for UAW Local 581, called after him:

"Hey governor, you don't sound very confident. What's the matter? Are you scared of Ferency?"

The governor wheeled in his tracks and retorted: "I'm not scared of him or anybody else."

Another heckler: "You won't debate Ferency on TV. You're afraid you are going to lose."

Romney: "I won't lose. I'm going to win by a bigger percentage than last time."

Gallinat: "You're a rich man who doesn't care any more about the working man than any previous governor."

Gallinat: "Haven't you ever made a mistake? I've never heard you admit to a mistake."

Romney: "You are an insulting young man."

Erhard Regime Plans Tax Hike

BONN, Germany. (AP) — Chancellor Ludwig Erhard's new minority government came up today with proposals for higher taxes to help buy U.S. arms and meet a budget deficit.

Rainer Barzel, leader of Erhard's Christian Democratic party in Parliament, told news men an effort would be made to find a majority that will support the new measures. The Christian Democrats do not have a majority in the Bundestag — Parliament. Cabinet ministers of the smaller Free Democratic party resigned Thursday, refusing to approve tax increases.

It is widely believed in Bonn that Erhard will be forced to quit.

Truck Hijacked

DETROIT (AP) — A truck containing 170 television sets and phonographs valued at $32,000 was hijacked Friday from the Darling Freight Inc. yard in Detroit, messenger James Carroll told police.

Johnson Appeals Anew To Hanoi Leaders For Reasoning Out Peace

BANGKOK (AP) — President Johnson appealed anew to Hanoi today to negotiate a Viet Nam peace—and he praised Thailand's government for recognizing the Communist threat.

Addressing a sedate academic audience at Chulalongkorn University in Bangkok, Johnson declared:

"I say to the leaders of Hanoi let us lay aside our arms and sit down together at the table of reason."

Later the President conferred for an hour with Premier Thanom Kittakachorn and top government leaders around a big horseshoe-shaped table at ornate Government House.

It was here that Johnson told the Thai chiefs that their country was wise to recognize early the need to meet the threat of Communist infiltration and subversion.

The chief executive also lauded the Thai government for promoting a social reform program in rural areas, saying the Thai leaders know that the battle against communism is not a purely military matter.

Thanom had told Johnson about plans for a multimillion-dollar five-year program for economic and social development to encompass health, education, electric power, highway and other development programs.

Reporting on his government's struggle with Communist guerrilla forces in the northeastern part of the country, Thanom said Communist activity had decreased in recent weeks while defections from their ranks have increased.

"But the Communists have not given up," he cautioned. In his response, Johnson said South Viet Nam is only the first target of the Communists and that they are looking at Southeast Asia as a whole. It is important to "stop them where they are," he added.

Levinson Asks For New Trial

DETROIT (AP) — U. S. District Judge Thomas P. Thornton took under advisement Friday a motion for a new trial for Detroit financier Ben Levinson and his executive assistant.

Levinson and his aide, Rose Howard, and two others were charged with conspiracy charges. Another man pleaded guilty.

The government said Levinson and his firm used the Wayne National Life Insurance Co. to push through Veterans Administration and Federal Housing Administration mortgages from the Rem Realty Co. using false and fraudulent credit ratings for home buyers.

'Lani Bird' Has Test Success

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new satellite designed to provide the first commercial space communications link between North America and the Far East has passed its initial transmission tests with flying colors.

The Intelint II "Lani Bird" satellite responded well to black-and-white television test patterns sent from a ground station at Andover, Maine, Friday officials of the Communications Satellite Corp. said.

"The pictures received back at Andover from the satellite clearly showed the increase in power over Early Bird transmissions," a Comsat spokesman said. "They indicate we will get a much better TV picture from the new satellite than we have from Early Bird."

Sheppard Jury Is Completed

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Now that a 12-member jury has been selected in the murder trial of Samuel H. Sheppard, the court again has before it the motion by the defense to move the trial outside of Cleveland.

Common Pleas Court Judge Francis J. Tally is expected to rule again on that motion Monday.

Before the retrial of the 43-year-old former osteopath started, defense attorney F. Lee Bailey filed a motion for change of venue, contending that it would be impossible for Sheppard to secure a fair trial in Cleveland.

Judge Tally denied the motion, ruling that an attempt first should be made to select an impartial jury. He said Bailey could bring the motion up again later.

DeGaulle View On War Meets U.S. Challenge

WASHINGTON (AP) — Two senators — one a critic and the other a supporter of President Johnson's Viet Nam policies — challenged today French President Charles de Gaulle's views on how to end the war.

In separate interviews, Sens. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., and Bourke B. Hickenlooper, R-Iowa, voiced opposition to De Gaulle's proposal that the United States withdraw its troops in advance of Viet Nam peace negotiations.

They disagreed with De Gaulle's statement at a Paris news conference Friday that the United States cannot "subdue" Viet Nam.

Hickenlooper, top Republican on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee who has given general support to Johnson's policies, said there is no question that the United States could crush North Viet Nam if it chose to do so.

"I think we could do it, but whether we will is a question of war policy," he said. "We could win a complete military victory but what we are trying to do is to get pacification short of complete destruction of the enemy."

State Department spokesmen said the United States has limited aims in Viet Nam and does not seek a military victory as a solution to the problems there.

The spokesmen added that De Gaulle's remarks represent "no substantive change of his previously expressed position."

Morse, a sharp critic of Johnson's Viet Nam course, said he agrees with Hickenlooper that there cannot be a withdrawal of American troops at this point.

"We can't withdraw now," he said. "We shouldn't have gone in the first place but an over-night withdrawal now would subject Viet Nam to one of the worst blood baths in history."

Johnson pledged at the recent Manila conference a pullout of American troops six months after peace conditions are established.

Time Switch Comes Sunday

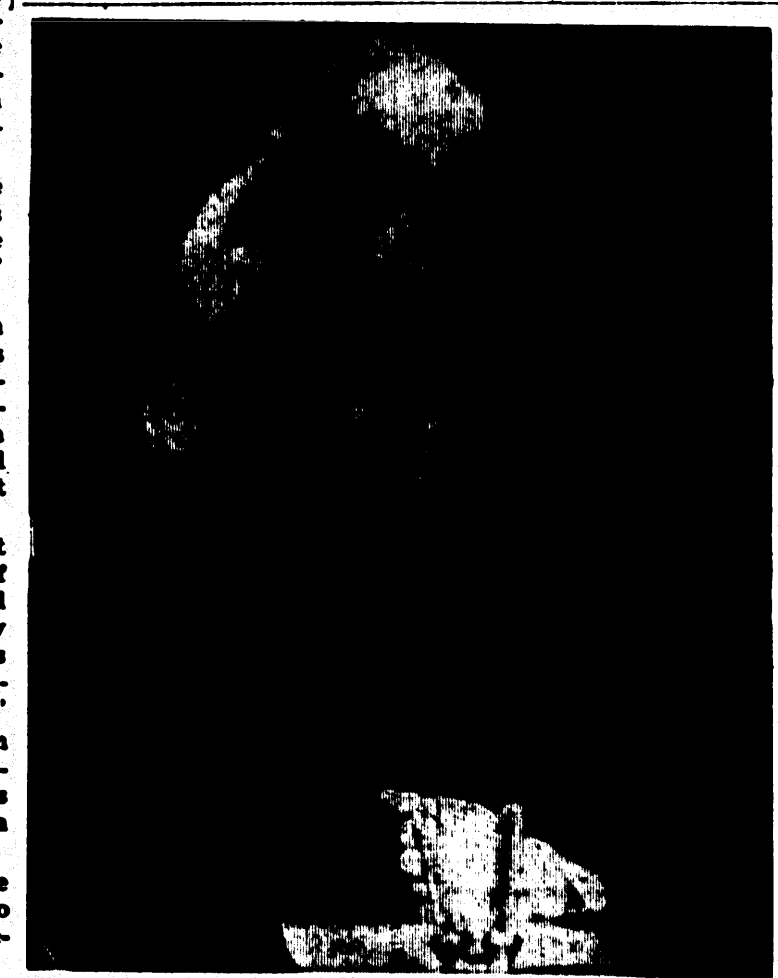

NEW YORK (AP) — The daylight-standard time switchover nags its way into your life again Sunday. If you live in any of 19 states or parts of 17 others, the clock must go back an hour at 2 a.m. Sunday.

This is the last year — in principle, at least — for time-gerrymandering. Under the Uniform Time Act of 1966 that President Johnson signed April 14, all states must go along with fast time next summer unless the state legislature forbids it.

That, anyway, is the principle. An Associated Press survey shows, however, that the confusion isn't over yet. Most states, including many divided into strange little time fiefs, haven't decided which way they will go next April when clocks get pushed ahead again.

The legislature isn't

North Viet Troops Hit Green Yanks On Cambodia's Border

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Coming in waves through jungle and elephant grass, North Vietnamese army regulars pounced on untired troops of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division today and reports indicated the enemy attacks bloodied the Americans badly in their first taste of the war.

The attacks, near the Cambodian border 230 miles north of Saigon, were the first reported in weeks in which North Vietnamese regulars were engaged. The last attacks by North Vietnamese came about three weeks ago against U.S. Marines south of the demilitarized zone, dividing the two Viet Nams.

In the fresh fighting, North Vietnamese guns downed three U.S. helicopters, one of them a medical evacuation craft that had just picked up American wounded.

The troops of the 4th Division came to Viet Nam in August and September from Ft. Lewis, Wash.

The division has one brigade based at the ammunition dump near Saigon that blew up after a Viet Cong attack Friday night with grenades, automatic weapons and mortar fire. One mortar round hit an ammunition storage pad, a U.S. spokesman said.

The remainder of the 4th Division set up a base camp near Pleiku in the central highlands. The North Vietnamese launched five attacks against these division units in the highlands Friday night and today.

A U.S. spokesman described the infantrymen's casualties as moderate, indicating they were hit severely. Allied officials do not specify their own battle casualties in numbers for reasons of security.

Three companies — or about 600 men — of the 4th were hit in the waves of attacks 6 to 15 miles west and northwest of Pleiku. Djereng Special Forces camp.

Clevenger Has Hope Visit Will Aid Vote Drive

DETROIT (AP) — A small airport crowd and a large contingent of newsmen greeted Sen. Robert F. Kennedy today as he arrived in Michigan to lend his support to the state's Democratic candidates in the Nov. 8 election.

Only about 30 of the approximately 150 persons at Willow Run Airport were legitimate Kennedy fans. The rest were newsmen assigned to cover Michigan's second taste of Kennedy family glamor in recent weeks.

Signs proclaiming "RFK for President 1968," and "We Love Bobby" were sprinkled through

Expect Crowd To Welcome Kennedy This Afternoon

Plans were complete in Escanaba today for the welcome of Sen. Kennedy at the airport at 4 p.m.

A motorcade to the Area High School, speeches, and a fast return to the airport to take off at 5:15 p.m. were on the schedule. Sen. Kennedy will fly from Escanaba to Buffalo, N.Y., where he has a speaking engagement at 7:30 tonight.

Sen. Kennedy will speak at the Area High School gym beginning at 4:15 p.m.

George S. Louis, Delta County Democratic chairman, said there is ample parking space and that no one need feel concerned about not finding parking at the high school.

Kennedy's trip to Escanaba as part of his Michigan tour is on behalf of the candidacy of Rep. Raymond Clevenger, 11th District congressman.

Rep. Clevenger was scheduled to meet Kennedy, Williams and Ferency in Escanaba.

The weather outlook is for cloudy and cold with occasional light snow.

The crowd which had been kept waiting an extra hour when Kennedy's plane was delayed.

Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams, who is running for the U.S. Senate, was the first of the Democratic candidates in line to shake hands with the brother of the late President. Second in line was Democratic State Chairman Zoltan Ferency, the party's candidate for governor.

Williams is in a tight contest with Republican Sen. Robert Griffin while Ferency is fighting an uphill battle against Gov. George Romney, who is seeking a third term.

Perched Off Road

On the way from the airport to nearby Eastern Michigan University at Ypsilanti, the car carrying Kennedy was forced onto the shoulder of the road by another auto with two couples who were displaying a "We Love Bobby" sign. The driver told reporters the over-enthusiastic Kennedy supporters had tried to cut in ahead of him.

About 2,000 persons gathered on the steps of EMU's Pease Auditorium to greet the New York Democrat before his scheduled address.

The Ypsilanti stop was the first of a scheduled eight-hour barnstorming tour of Michigan to bolster the Democratic campaign slate in critical congressional districts.

Today's visit followed a similar swing through Michigan by Kennedy's younger brother, Sen. Edward (Ted) Kennedy, D-Mass., who drew large and enthusiastic crowds wherever he went.

The New York Kennedy, frequently mentioned as a possible Democratic presidential candidate in 1972, has been plugging for his party's nominees from

Rinehart Heads U-M Alumni Club

Dr. Richard Rinehart, president of Bay de Noc Community College, Friday was elected president of the Delta County University of Michigan Alumni Club at a meeting at the Delta.

He succeeds Dr. Edward Kylvonen.

Dave Andrews, city editor of the Daily Press, was elected vice president, and Charles Folio, U. of M. extension service director in Escanaba, was reelected secretary-treasurer.

About 40 Michigan Alumni attended the program and heard Dr. William Stegath, Alumni Association field secretary, deliver a report on Michigan's Sesquicentennial plans and also on new developments and building on campus.

Prior to dinner, the group was entertained with folk songs by Karin Beck and Sue Fletcher.

Delta Sends 44 Stegath said Delta County currently has 44 students attending the University and there are 382 alumni in the county. He said of the University's 36,000 enrollment, about 30,000 are on the Ann Arbor campus.

Stegath said the University depends on a "selective admissions" policy for its students, rather than weed them out as freshmen as some colleges do, in an effort to be fairer to both parents and the student.

"Michigan has the lowest dropout rate of any public supported institution in the country," Stegath continued. "Fewer than seven per cent of the freshman fail to complete their first year. About 80 per cent of the students who enroll get degrees."

"The admissions office is telling you, if you get admitted we think you can make it," he said. Stegath said that admissions are based on six factors: 1, high school record; 2, class rank; 3, college board and achievement test scores; 4, high school recommendation; 5, extra-curricular activities, and 6, subjective factors not otherwise apparent (interviews, etc.).

Slide Program In a slide program showing the University's rapid expansion, some alumni were surprised at reports that Michigan has a four-year navy operating in Great Lakes region; the University is only the 7th largest institution in the Big Ten and its 36,000 enrollment is some 24,000 less than the University of Minnesota enrollment of 60,000; a class ratio of one instructor or professor to every 28 students is maintained; the ratio of 60 per cent undergraduates to 40 per cent graduate students has been maintained in recent years; and about 75 per cent of Michigan's students come from the state.

Stegath also showed a sound movie featuring the Michigan Marching Band's performance in the 1965 Rose Bowl.

Logan To Face Georgia Charge

DETROIT (AP)—Ray Logan, 36, who spent 42 years in Michigan's Jackson Prison, waived extradition Friday to Georgia, where he faces possible prosecution on a charge dating back to 1923.

Logan is charged with escaping from a Georgia prison camp 43 years ago after serving six years of a 10-year sentence for armed robbery.

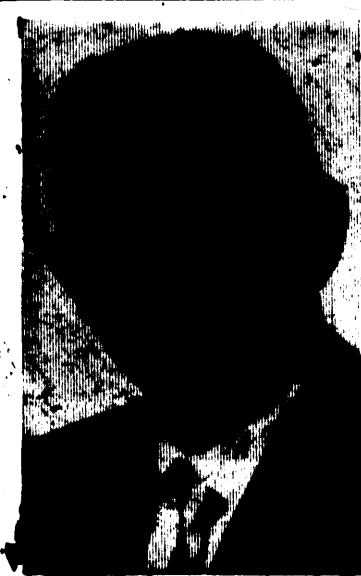

Logan served term in Jackson Prison after being given a life sentence in the 1924 slaying of his Highland Park, Mich., sweetheart.

Last month he was granted a new trial. He entered a plea of guilty to a manslaughter charge, so he could be put on probation because he was unsure of his ability to deal with modern society, he said.

The maximum penalty on the manslaughter charge is 15 years. Since he had already served almost three times the sentence, Circuit Judge Joseph A. Sullivan of Wayne County put Logan on probation as he had requested.

"I've got to go back there and face the music or I'll have no peace of mind," Logan said about the extradition. "I want to clean this up so that I can really be a free man."

Thompson Creek Coho Project Land Is Sought

Proposed acquisition of 40 acres of prime land on Thompson Creek near Manistique and another 40 acres adjacent to Bewabic State Park in Iron County are among the items on the agenda for the Michigan Conservation Commission during its November meeting in Lansing next Thursday and Friday.

Meeting in Lansing, the commissioners will decide whether to acquire 40 acres at the mouth of Thompson Creek to be added to the Thompson fish hatchery at a cost of $30,000.

The parcel, offered to the state by the Toledo Trust Co. and Paul Kirchmaier, as trustees under the will of Abram Chesbrough of Toledo, would give the state land that could be used for rearing and holding ponds for the Thompson hatchery.

The Michigan Conservation Department plans to release coho salmon in Thompson Creek, which flows into Lake Michigan, and the tract is regarded as being of outstanding importance to the future of the anadromous (river to lakes) fish program on Lake Michigan. The stream recently developed steelhead runs.

The land offered to the state in the vicinity of Bewabic State Park would give the department consolidation of ownership to facilitate expansion of the park. It is being offered for $1,450 by Lauri Poikonen of Crystal Falls.

The commission also is scheduled to take action on copper lease sales in Ontonagon and Houghton counties.

At a public auction earlier this month, the department's lands division offered three blocks of state-owned mineral lands totaling 1,510 acres for copper exploration and mining purposes. Bids totaling $3,110 were accepted for the lease rights to the lands.

The successful bidders were Sterling S. Bartlowe of Bay City for 110 acres in Ontonagon County for $210 and $22 acres in Houghton County for $2,500 and Bear Creek Mining Co. for 516 acres in Ontonagon County for $400.

Commissioners also will be asked to approve timber sales proposals totaling $37,595, all in the Upper Peninsula. Included is stumpage in the Baraga, Grand Sable, Iron Range, Munuscong and Tahquamenon River State Forests.

Thirty-four dentists will represent Michigan at the 107th annual session of the American Dental Association, being held Nov. 14-17 in Dallas.

Among delegates to the House of Delegates, the Association's policy-making body, will be Vernon K. Johnson, Escanaba. Alternate delegates include Dr. Gerniel G. Jacobs, Iron Mountain.

Golf Club Asks Kids 'Keep Off'

Officers of the Escanaba Country Club today appealed to parents of the golf course area to please keep their children off golf course property.

President Don Scott said several greens already have been damaged and there have been reports of youths using the golf club as a motorbike track.

"The club has a sizable investment in fairways and greens," he pointed out, "and although the grounds are not fenced the club is private property."

Scott said parents will be held responsible for damages by children caught on the course. He added that Escanaba police have been asked to patrol through the area to guard against further damage.

U.P. Central Highway

The annual meeting of the Upper Michigan Tourist Association this week rejected a proposed resolution calling for opposition to construction of a limited access highway east-west across the Upper Peninsula.

Some tourist business operators spoke in support of the resolution, but the major opinion of the group saw in it a possible impediment to Upper Peninsula development. One speaker said: "The Tourist Association has just adopted a program of reform to make its activities more progressive. If it were to pass this resolution it would, in effect be saying to the Lower Peninsula: 'We want the state to create a much more active program of recreation business development, but don't bring us a superhighway because we don't want to be that progressive.'"

Support for the resolution cited that for 9 months of the year the traffic on U. S. 2 and M-28, the present east-west routes across the U. P., is Canadian in big part. The traffic comes south of Lake Superior instead of north. If there were to be a new east-west highway in the central U. P., it was suggested, more than half of this Canadian traffic's highway business would be lost to the U. P. because it would just highball across the Peninsula. The present routes have cities on them, tempting the travelers to stop.

Gerald Harmon, the new owner of Blaney Park, urged that the Tourist Association not oppose limited access highway construction. "We went through that at Howell," he said, "and now there'd be a bigger fight if they wanted to take the limited access highway away. No one lost any money. There should be a lot of study before you stand up and oppose such highways."

President Jack English of UMTA said "We should go slow on this one. We're never going to have a great traffic unless we have this kind of road and we can't stop it anyway. It's a thorny question, but progress can't be stopped forever."

Clyde Nelson of St. Ignace, however, said that two-thirds of the business north out of St. Ignace has been lost with construction of the new I-75 and that the tax base had been destroyed.

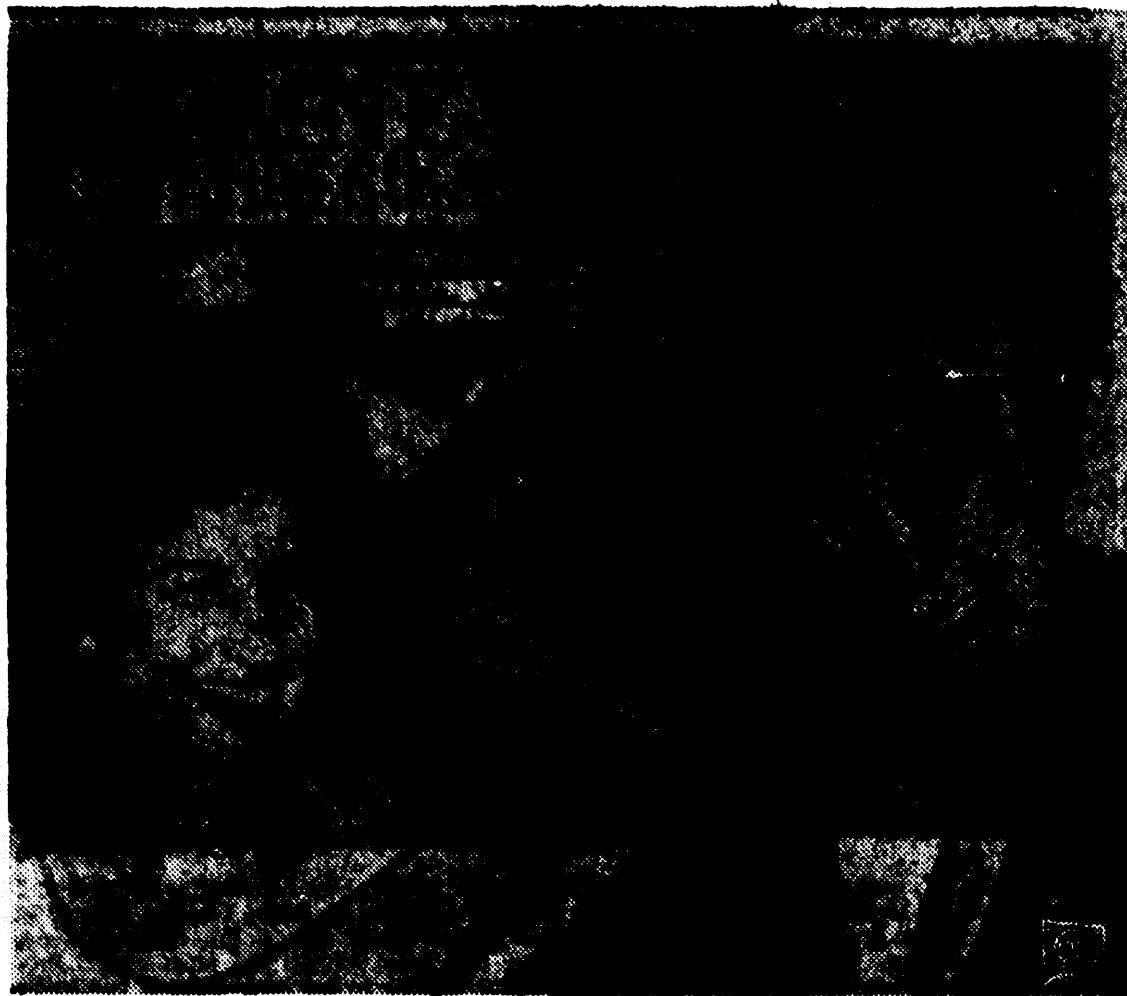

Lynn Sandberg, woodlands manager of Celotex Corp., which has had a lakefront home site development in the L'Anse area, said "Seventy-five per cent of the people we talked with in our development project commented that roads in the Upper Peninsula are too slow to get places."

Kenneth Dorman, manager of UMTA said that if a new east-west highway were to run from Sault Ste. Marie to Ironwood, skipping the cities now served by U. S. 2 and M-28 and being served by 8 new Holiday Inns, the present routes would lose 30 per cent of their highway business tax base.

Lawrence Rubin, secretary of the Mackinac Bridge Authority and chairman of the finance committee of the Good Roads Federation, said "I don't know of a dime available for a new route."

Led by Fr. Louis Cappel, a great friend of U. P. development, the Tourist Association resolved to push for more development of U. S. 2 and M-28, without mention of a new limited access highway. This is the best position for the group at this time. It's horrendous for a man with a big investment in a tourist business to have the highway taken away, but change is inevitable and it can't always be shaped by local interests. Too, people change their minds with time and a limited access road may be the apple of U. P. tourism's eye a few years hence.

Unquestionably there has been a substantial loss of tourist business to the U. P. because the late Charlie Ziegler didn't think that it should have an interstate highway east-west. Being left off that national map and being denied its construction funds has been hurtful

This Campaign Is Symbol

Romney Runs For Margin

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

LANSING, MICH. — (NEA) The new political breed is coming on, and Republican Gov. George W. Romney of Michigan, at 59, is one of the few semiretired in politics who may still outrun it.

If he gets the whopping third term victory he needs, and all indications point to it, handsome George will move into high position for the 1968 GOP presidential nomination.

In his Mormon religion, the body is deemed the temple of the spirit and must be strongly maintained. Romney may be thankful he has been slipping out at dawn to churn up the dirt at golf courses all over eastern Michigan.

Lyndon Johnson could be the last U.S. president, for awhile at least, to come from the older generation and look it. Romney's prize asset is that he seems to belong to the young.

As in his two prior races, he campaigns like a buzz saw against his little-known Democratic opponent, Zoltan Ferency, the party state chairman.

Romney's 1966 run is a close replay of the late John F. Kennedy's Massachusetts reelection bid as U. S. Senator in 1958. Kennedy had a weak unknown as adversary, and one big goal, to pile up an attention-getting vote margin.

Romney could do it, as Kennedy did. The governor won by 383,000 in 1964 against the Johnson landslide. This time, though the off-year vote will inevitably be smaller, he could go past 400,000 and even half a million.

Mindful of his needs, Romney this year more than ever leaves no voter untended.

Hitting the restaurant circuit at lunchtime is a great new favorite, since voters who will not come to rallies must nevertheless eat. The governor heads first for the kitchen, wandering among the pleasers and cake-bakers, then taps the workers on the cafeteria line, and finally weaves among the patrons.

At one spot in the Detroit area, he grabbed a restaurant microphone and said, "I'm saying hello to as many of my 'buddies' as I can. I haven't time today to go into all these rooms, so I'll just shake hands with you mentally."

Loud applause wells up from the captive audience. Those he does greet personally sometimes turn out to be from other states, but they only warm his presidential hopes the more.

"I'm from West Virginia, but I'll support you. . . I live in Illinois, but you've got my vote. . ."

Four years ago, as a celebrated automobile company chief, he ran into thick, widespread hostility from union-conscious Michigan workers. Time after time, he waded into nose-to-nose combat with unfriendly types.

The governor still shows flashes of his old combative-ness when challenged in some factory. But the hostility today is a thing merely of pockets (like Flint). Countless workers are friendly, and polls suggest many will vote for George.

His response also is strong among Detroit's Negroes, who gave him 18 per cent of their vote in 1964 and probably will go bigger for him this year. One poll gives him 37 per cent.

Indeed, to most Michigan voters (and possibly to many others), Romney is evidently the very symbol of attractive yet firm and hopeful authority.

And some may be voting for him this time out of pride, as many Massachusetts folks did for Kennedy in 1960 when they knew they were boosting a presidential prospect.

Against the deeply rooted impression of Romney as a good governor, the cheerful, sharp-tongued Ferency seems like a bird trapped in a house.

As his snappy little campaign bus pulled up for a recent stop at an automobile assembly plant, Ferency leaped out and headed inside. An aide hung back, frantically hunting for something amid the clutter on the bus.

"The button, the button," he cried. "Ah, there it is." Beneath a coat he found a huge yellow button whose legend read: "I am Zoltan Ferency."

The urgency of his quest was real. Ferency, for all the fact that he has been whipping Romney for some years, desperately needs that button on his chest.

At a plant gate in Flint in a cool, early morning drizzle, the Democratic nominee grins and bears it when a worker says:

"I finally know who you are." Ferency, speaking for a moment almost as if it meant he had a chance, tells a visitor standing near:

"More and more people are recognizing me on sight." Yet, in the brighter part of the day, he remembers the odds. He's running because no name candidate wanted to risk his career against Romney.

There is some tendency among political appraisers outside Michigan to demand more of Romney the 1968 prospect than just a huge winning margin.

Some observers say he had to pull in other Republicans, especially Sen. Robert P. Griffin in his race against stature as a vote-getter and party man. But, though he is trying hard to do it and assigning heavy resources to the effort, the governor (and his aides) regard this as an unreasonable demand not levied upon Richard Nixon or any other 1968 hopeful.

The appraisers sting Romney, too, with insistence that he has to show them right now that he is more than just a good governor of Michigan, that he is knowledgeable on foreign affairs and major national domestic matters. Many find him wanting.

The governor is defensive on this score, and aides say he will prove knowledgeable enough when he turns openly to the national scene.

In fact, these extra demands may be beside the point. The driving logic of politics—which centers on the big winner who is available and wants the big prize enough to go for it early and hard—leads inevitably to George Romney.

Margin is the big thing. If he gets the huge edge on Nov. 8, he will be on his way.

er shop a bit later, Col. Briggs got an outraged roar from the proprietor when he spotted the combs:

"Don't bring those combs in here! We sell 'em, you know!" "Actually," responded the colonel quickly, "I just give them away so that people will take better care of their hair. That way, they'll come to the barber shop more often."

The barber promptly accepted a comb himself.

Politicians sometimes find young voters more cooperative than knowledgeable.

In Alabama the other day, Rep. James Martin, GOP nominee for governor against Mrs. Lurleen Wallace, turned to a comely blonde secretary and asked with a smile:

"Will you vote for me?" Her response was quick: "Sure . . . Who are you?"

A liberal party worker busy this year trying to get votes for Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. as governorship nominee was equally active last autumn for Mayor John Lindsay of New York, who had liberal party endorsement.

The worker's young son grew accustomed in 1965 to seeing daddy dash off for the Lindsay campaign. This time he isn't quite with it. He asked his father one morning as he left the house:

"Isn't Lindsay elected yet?"

LA. Col. Ruth Briggs, the former WAC who is very much an underdog in her race to unseat Rhode Island Democratic Sen. Claiborne Pell, passes out a small plastic comb to every voter she meets.

This is a good gimmick, but sometimes it can cause embarrassment.

Recently, the colonel entered a ward at a Veterans' Hospital which contained mostly World War I campaigners. They were all men and they were all bald.

Col. Briggs passed out her combs anyway, taking a pretty heavy ribbing from the veterans. Eventually, they formed a Mutual Optimists Society.

"I said I was going to lick Pell," explains Col. Briggs, "and they all said they were going to grow hair."

THE INVISIBLE

Scanning the Congressional Record, one finds our present Congressman Clevenger, who claims that he has not been content just to vote on the Great Society programs; but has also battled the bureaucrats; yet failed to attend meetings that were of vital importance to the Upper Peninsula.

The Mackinac Bridge is just one instance of Mr. Clevenger's gross negligence in the field of effective legislation. Where was Mr. Clevenger during the lengthy hearings which were held before the Road Subcommittee of the Public Works Committee which could have heard his testimony on behalf of his amendment to have the trust fund take over the indebtedness of the Mackinac Bridge as a part of the interstate system?

As Congressman Clausen of California states, "That would have been the time for the gentleman from Michigan to appear so we could give proper consideration to any such amendments he may have." Mr. Clevenger, why didn't you testify before the Committee on Public Works in behalf of your bill? The people are entitled to know why you failed to represent us on this vital question.

South won the club lead with dummy's ace and played a small spade. East stuck in the nine and was allowed to hold the trick. Then he played his singleton trump. South won, cashed his ace of spades, ruffed his last spade in dummy, ruffed a club and played a high trump. East showed out.

South played out the hand slowly but had no way to avoid the loss of three more tricks. He complained about his bad luck but he had no real right to complain.

South should have studied the hand carefully before playing to the second trick. He could count ten tricks if trumps broke but he could also take some precautions in case they happened to break 4-1.

His correct play would be to ruff a club at trick two and lead a spade. East would win and lead a trump. South would win, take the ace of spades, ruff a spade, ruff another club in his own hand and then go a f t e r trumps. They still wouldn't break but it wouldn't hurt South. He would make his last trump by ruffing dummy's last club. Of course this play wouldn't have worked if West held only three clubs but it represented an extra chance that was well-worth taking.

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — There aren't very many men who could beat Benjamin Franklin at anything.

But as an almanac salesman, Ray Geiger, 36, a former altar boy and Notre Dame philosophy student, makes old Ben look like a piker.

Franklin usually sold only about 5,000 copies a year of his famed "Poor Richard's Almanack" published from 1733 to 1757.

But since 1934, Geiger has sold 50 million almanacs, more than any other man in history.

He is making a small fortune out of nostalgia.

"Almanacs help satisfy people's yearning for the wholesomeness of an old-fashioned way of life that we'll never get back to but still miss," he said. "And children like an almanac because they feel it gives them a true glimpse of the old days."

Over Two Million

This year Geiger has printed 2,750,000 copies of the 150th annual edition of the "Farmers' Almanac," which is distributed free to customers by banks, insurance companies and other firms. When he took it over in 1933, it was selling only about 100,000 copies.

He is also printing 800,000 copies of the second issue of "The American Farm and Home Almanac," which he founded only a year ago and is sold on newsstands.

Geiger, tall, blond and affable, heads a $5-million-a-year advertising specialties firm in Lewiston, Maine. A promotion genius, he makes 125 speeches a year, travels some 100,000 miles.

The almanacs represent only a small fraction of his business, but give him the most fun.

"I peddle the almanacs to send my five children through school," he said smiling.

Remains Liked 'Em

Almanacs were popular among the ancient Egyptians and the Romans. Some 150 kinds flourished in early America, including church almanacs, political almanacs, patent medicine almanacs, and even temperance almanacs.

Then, as now, they featured weather forecasts, phases of the moon, household recipes, historical oddities, bits of folklore and snippets of wisdom.

"Early to bed, early to rise, makes a man healthy, wealthy and wise," said "Poor Richard's Almanack."

"When a man gets too old to set a bad example, he starts giving good advice," says the 1967 sequelennial edition of the "Farmers' Almanac."

Good Record

Its 12-month weather forecasts are made by Harry Buie, a Florida astronomer.

"We are kidded about them," said Ray, "but they often turn out to be surprisingly accurate. We have a good batting average."

Geiger gets contributions from all parts of the nation. One of his best sources is a convict serving a life sentence.

"He has plenty of time to read and clip," said Ray.

Geiger spent five years in military service during World War II, entering it as a private and leaving as a captain. He still managed to edit his almanac, even while recuperating in the Philippines from a bullet wound.

Car Production At High Point

DETROIT (AP) — Auto production this week reached its highest point to date of calendar 1966 as an estimated 218,477 cars were built in U.S. plants.

The output compared with last week's 208,294 and the 214,885 built in the corresponding week a year ago. The figure was the highest since the week of Dec. 4, 1965 when 217,087 cars were assembled.

Automotive News, a trade publication, said the industry had built 6,975,579 cars in U.S. plants thus far in 1966, compared with 7,559,520 for the like period of 1965.

U.S. truck plants turned out 38,777 units this week compared with 36,011 last week and 37,880 in the corresponding week of 1965. Calendar year output climbed to 1,454,733 versus 1,405,904 at this point a year ago.

Anti-Gun Force Vows New Try

WASHINGTON (AP) — The assassination of President John F. Kennedy didn't do it. The massacre on the University of Texas campus didn't do it. Appeals from President Johnson didn't do it.

Sponsors don't profess to know what it will take to pass new federal gun control legislation, but before Congress adjourned they vowed to keep trying in the next session.

A major bone of contention is whether a bill should be limited largely to handguns like revolvers and pistols or should also take in long guns—shotguns and rifles.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., has been the chief sponsor of an administration-backed bill covering both handguns and long guns, but he was unable to get this measure out of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Leading the opposition was Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., who maintained that crime statistics show the handgun is "the principal offender" in the unlawful use of firearms.

On Sept. 22, the committee approved Hruska's bill by a 10-5 vote. But this was misleading. Dodd and some other opponents voted to report it out of committee in hopes the broader bill could be substituted for it on the Senate floor.

Hruska's bill would ban interstate sales of handguns to persons under 21 years of age and regulate mail order sales through an affidavit procedure under which delivery would have to be delayed seven days to give local police an opportunity to check on the purchaser.

It would place no new restrictions on mail order sales of shotguns and rifles on the ground that "their preponderant use is in a lawful and beneficial manner"—such as for hunting, target shooting and other recreation.

Arabs Threaten Blacklisting For American Firms

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — A decision on whether to blacklist the Radio Corp. of America in the Arab world will be taken next month, the Arab Boycott of Israel commissioner, Mohammed Mahjoub, announced.

Mahjoub said the case of two other American companies — Coca Cola Corp. and Ford Motor Co.—will also be decided at the meeting of Arab Boycott of Israel liaison officers in Kuwait Nov. 16.

Mahjoub said RCA had granted an Israeli company the right to use its label on records made in Israel.

He said RCA Communications, a branch of the parent company, was a member of the American-Israeli Chamber of Commerce.

Mahjoub said RCA had been issued a six-month warning by his organization, which has already expired.

Coca Cola and Ford have been threatened with a total blacklist in the Arab world if they go ahead with reported plans to set up plants in the Jewish state.

Many farmers, for fear of "poisoning the soil," refused to use cast-iron plows when they first appeared in the early 1800s.

Business Concern On Mental Illness Grows

NEW YORK (AP) — Business is becoming as concerned about mental health as the hospitals are, but for a different reason. Somebody has to pay the bill, more and more it looks as if business might be the one.

Medical and disability payments for mental illnesses may well become a fringe benefit if you use recent court cases as a guide. Time after time lately companies have been held liable for employee breakdowns.

A classic example involves payment to a railroad man who suffered a collapse because of what he said were emotional stresses and tensions in operating a traffic system while people shouted at him over loudspeakers.

The costs already are building up. Alcoholism, for example is even now costing industry about $2 billion a year. But this bill is tabulated in lost productivity, in alcohol's proven association with accidents and absenteeism.

The bigger bill, however, is likely to be in medical and disability payments. Emotionally ill persons may be out of work a long time. They could run up bills in the tens of thousands of dollars.

The costs of workmen's compensation and insurance premiums are rising. Premiums on compensation alone now run between $2 billion and $2.5 billion a year, even without the possible flood of mental illness claims.

The precedent has been established now that an emotional illness is "compensable" when it originates in a physical injury. A physical injury caused by emotional stress also is payable. Now the law has recognized that a psychiatric illness resulting solely from mental stress may be payable.

In some cases the worker has not even had to prove his illness was caused by his job. Instead, the responsibility was put upon the company to disprove the connection.

Some businessmen feel this is unfair. But others feel business does have an obligation, even in self interest. Since the problems cost them money, these businessmen reason, let's try to correct them and lessen our costs.

This is occurring, but to a limited degree, in some companies.

In medium-size plants today the medical center usually is staffed by a nurse, perhaps a doctor too, but seldom by a psychiatrist. The psychiatrist is finding a role in some plants, however.

One company that employed a psychiatrist in its medical unit one-half day a week reported 50 to 60 per cent of its alcoholics rehabilitated and seven of 10 psychotics returned to work.

Builds For Future
Political observers point out Kennedy is building up political IOUs which he can cash in at some future date.

Kennedy already has indicated he will defer to President Johnson and not seek the 1968 nomination.

But some of the three dozen or so newsmen traveling with him obviously don't believe it, or they wouldn't be traveling with him.

The Kennedy press contingent outnumbers the reporters who usually accompany Vice President Hubert Humphrey. Only the President draws a larger press corps than Kennedy.

Here Today
On Kennedy's Michigan schedule were speeches at Ypsilanti, Detroit, Pontiac and Escanaba. Between stops, motorcades were planned to provide maximum exposure through busy streets crowded with Saturday shoppers.

Among the candidates who counted on political dividends accruing from the Kennedy visit were Congressmen John Conyers, Weston Vivian, Billie Farnum and Ray Clevenger. Stops were scheduled in each of their districts.

Some advance political drum beating was staged for the Kennedy visit Friday night with a 15-car motorcade through Hamtramck, complete with a Dixieland band, beauty queens and a national television camera crew.

Williams and Ferency led the parade on foot for a while, then struck out for the friendly crowds lining the sidewalks, pumping hands right and left. Other candidates who joined in the parade included assorted judges, legislators and lesser officials or nominees.

Meets Griffin
For Ferency, the Hamtramck affair climaxed a day which began in Midland, where he spoke to a meeting of educators. From there he went to Saginaw for a similar meeting, then to Detroit. In Saginaw, Ferency crossed paths with Griffin. Unintentionally, he backed into a piano while Griffin was standing in the wings of a high school stage. Ferency quipped as he shook hands with Griffin:

"I just wanted to give you a fanfare."
At a news conference, Ferency was advised that Romney had complained about a 30-minute edited film version of a two-hour debate between the two at an AFL-CIO conference. The film has been made available to local Democratic groups.

Ferency said the complaint was typical of the governor. "He is quick to criticize before he has all the facts."

Two States To Quiz Price Hike

NEW YORK (AP) — The governors of Texas and Massachusetts have ordered immediate investigations of rising food prices in their states — both targets of housewives' supermarket boycott.

Gov. John A. Volpe of Massachusetts allocated $25,000 in emergency funds for a study by the State Consumers Council while Gov. John B. Connally of Texas enlisted three university presidents to draw up reports on the situation.

Both Volpe, a Republican, and Connally, a Democrat, are up for re-election next month.

Praise for the housewives' protest movement came from Esther Peterson, President Johnson's special adviser on consumer interests. Meeting with shoppers in New York City, she said the boycotts were making for more intelligent buying. "If housewives get together and do selective shopping, they can bring prices down," she said, pointing to Denver where boycotters have claimed reductions of up to 20 per cent.

MacMullan Tells Turkey Hunters To Enjoy Chase

LANSING (AP) — "Go ahead and enjoy your turkey hunt."

That's the advice of Conservation Director Ralph MacMullan to 400 Michigan residents who won permits to hunt wild turkeys in two west Michigan areas during a special nine-day season beginning next Wednesday.

MacMullan said the Lake County Conservation Club and the Baldwin Area Chamber of Commerce had written all 400 permit holders, asking them not to hunt in the areas.

So MacMullan wrote them a letter of his own saying, "These organizations are no doubt sincere. We are sure, however, that their concern in this case is unjustified. There is no danger that the turkey flock will be harmed by the limited hunting season we have prescribed."

He said last fall, when Michigan's first turkey hunt of the century was held in the Allegan State Game Area, some 80 turkeys were shot out of a total population of around 700.

"This fall there are again about 700 turkeys in Allegan, which means the flock has replaced its losses," MacMullan said.

MOVIE STAR Debbie Reynolds leads adoring Girl Scouts out of Cobo Hall in Detroit to start the national piping campaign to attract more girls and adults into Girl Scouting. The Delta County Girl Scout Board, headed by Mrs. George Douglas, chairman, attended the national convention.

Board Attends Convention

Delta To Pipe For Scouts

Delta County's Girl Scout Board is back from the 37th National Girl Scout Convention at Cobo Hall, Detroit brimming with enthusiasm for the new national piping program to hold girls in Scouting and to attract more girls and adults into the organization.

Mrs. George Douglas of Escanaba led the Delta team to Detroit. It left last Sunday and returned Thursday night. Other members were Mrs. Robert Finley, Mrs. Rupert Prinski, Mrs. Steven Fraddo, all of Escanaba.

Mrs. William Swenson and Mrs. Ray Gazley of Gladstone.

Six thousand delegates attended the Detroit meeting, where film star Debbie Reynolds "piped" the organization into a new triennium. Debbie is honorary national piper of a new nationwide project to increase Girl Scouting's attraction for both girls and adults. Originally a solo, Debbie's piping song became a trio as two other members of the national piper team, Mrs. J. Lucian Smith of Atlanta, and

Miss Dephane Tabor of the national Girl Scout staff, New York, sang "We're following the piper."

The song sounded best with the chorus of 6,000 Girl Scout adults and each of the 468 Girl Scout councils will have its own piper to keep the piping echoing throughout the country in the campaign.

C&H - Goodman Buys Canadian Timber Company

Paul W. Robson, president of Calumet & Hecla, Inc., today announced at the firm's Evanston, Ill., headquarters, the acquisition of Pick Timber Co., Ltd., of Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario by the company's Canadian subsidiary, Calumet & Hecla (Canadian) Ltd.

Pick Timber is a privately-owned company producing high quality hardwood veneer logs and other forest products for sale in the United States and Canada. It also operates a sawmill through a wholly-owned subsidiary, L. H. Shay Veneer of Canada, Ltd.

In announcing the final closing of the acquisition on Oct. 28, Robson called attention to the mention of such an agreement in the company's nine month report to shareholders released earlier this month. He indicated that A. C. Baudet, vice president and general manager of Calumet & Hecla's Goodman Division in Escanaba, will serve as vice president of Pick Timber Co. Ltd. Bruce Pickersgill, president of Pick Timber Co., will continue as general manager of that operation, reporting to Baudet.

Copper Shortage Tied To Viet War

NEW YORK (AP) -- Herbert M. Weed, vice president of Anacosta Co., has told the National Industrial Conference Board, the copper shortage will end soon after the Viet Nam war ends.

If the war continues, Weed said, the copper shortage would continue until 1970 but supplies of lead and zinc should be ample.

Weed told the board the present copper shortage is the result of "imposing a war demand on an already overheated civilian economy."

"Consumers have been trying to lay in a large reserve which, of course, has had the effect of making the apparent shortage seem greater than it really is."

"For the first eight months of the current year, the apparent domestic consumption has averaged 168,000 tons a month, which is about 28 percent above the monthly average for the same period last year. In the preceding five-year period the increase averaged 3.5 per cent per year."

"I have serious doubts whether the difference of 22.5 percent represents war demand. More probably, a good portion of that percentage increase represents a buildup in inventories."

Computer Solves Banking Tedium

By DAVE ANDREWS
The Escanaba National Bank, outwardly, doesn't appear much different than it did 10 years ago.

There is a new drive-in bank building at the rear and some additional parking area, but the building is still the same and its doors still open to Ludington St.

Inside, however, the internal machinery that tells customers how much money they have available in their checking accounts, the change is vast.

Tedious jobs are disappearing. Instead of days they take hours. Instead of hours, minutes. Instead of minutes, seconds.

The computer age came to the bank last summer. Some of you noticed it in the change in monthly statements. Others, perhaps, are still not aware. IBM is doing the typing, not sifter fingers.

Green Bay Center Used
Service come from Kellogg Citizens National Bank in Green Bay and the Escanaba National Bank is the first bank in the Upper Peninsula and one of a handful in the Upper Midwest to undertake the program. All demand deposits (checking accounts) are processed through the Green Bay data center.

Many checks written on Escanaba National accounts never reach the bank, going straight to Green Bay, being recorded on statements, placed on file and sent back to the customer in monthly statements.

"The advantage of the system is that it eliminates the tedious jobs of banking," said Matt N. Smith, executive vice president. "We have a much more effective and efficient system now at both our Escanaba and Rapid River offices."

Smith, who takes pride in progress and is proud of Escanaba National's advances, believes "it's just a matter of time before all banks go to the computer."

New Unit Ordered
Eugene W. Sladky, vice president of Kellogg Citizens National in Green Bay and public relations and corresponding bank representative, said Kellogg Citizens went to the computer center program two years ago.

"We have four banks on the program—Escanaba National included—and are scheduled to have four more going before the end of the year. We expect two more in the first of next year."

Sladky explained that Kellogg Citizens uses an IBM Model 1440 computer, but has an IBM 360 scheduled for delivery April 29, 1967. The difference, he said, is that with the 1440 each bank's accounts must be run through separately. With the 360, all accounts can be handled simultaneously, an obvious savings of time and allowing for more accounts.

"The memory core on the 360 is so much greater it will be able to handle the extra load," Sladky said.

Sladky added that it takes about 55 to 65 minutes to process Escanaba National business, now.

The computer reads the amount of a check, checks the account number to make sure it is valid, and checks the bank number at the rate of about 750 checks per minute, he said. If something is wrong, the computer rejects the check.

"The only error we have run into is human," Sladky said. "Something like when the amount is put on incorrectly, etc."

"As far as computer breakdown, IBM has mechanics on call 24 hours a day 365 days a year. We've never had a breakdown where we couldn't get out the day's work. If something did happen, there are backup data centers at Appleton and Wausau we could use."

Smith explained that Escanaba National accounts each have a code number which is used by the computer in preparing its daily reports to the bank. By checking the code number, a bank officer can tell at a glance whether or not the check was drawn from a public, business or personal account.

Also available at a glance is information as to number of deposits, type of account, number of accounts, etc., and even such things as account balances. It would take an office staff days to prepare the same reports.

"We keep different totals for our main and branch offices," Smith said.

Sent Direct
A check written on an Escanaba National Bank account only comes back to the bank if it was received by a local business with an Escanaba National account, he continued.

"Checks received by firms outside Escanaba area are remitted directly to the Green Bay data center from the Federal Reserve Bank in Minneapolis. Escanaba National checks which clear first through a firm with an account in another local bank also go direct to Green Bay."

"The only checks processed here are from our own business accounts," Smith said.

To process these checks, however, Escanaba National has installed some electronic equipment in its second floor offices. It keeps a couple of girls busy all day long.

First, there is a sort of combination proof machine-sorter, which is used to verify deposit slips and checks and also puts dollar amounts on the check in electronically readable ink. If the amount is put on incorrectly, the balance won't come out to zero on the machine.

Tapes Punched
For example, your payroll check is $180. Out of this you take $20 in cash, making a deposit in your checking account of $160. The machine first checks the entire amount ($180), then subtracts from it the deposit ($160) and the cash taken out ($20). If the result isn't zero, a mistake has been made.

As this is being done, another girl on another machine makes a punched tape which includes the dollar amount of the check and the account number. The tape is later fed into a data phone system linked directly to the computer in Green Bay, allowing transmission directly from Escanaba into the computer.

Checks which clear through other banks go to Green Bay by U.S. mail for processing. The computer operation takes an hour and all of the reports on the previous day's banking activity is on the way back to Escanaba by bus. Bank officers have the information the next morning.

Escanaba National also runs its installment loans through a computer service in Minneapolis, again saving the tedium of recording by hand.

Do Robots Smile?

Smith said the bank is currently considering a proposal to handle its savings and real estate mortgages directly "on line" through a computer.

When and if it comes, Escanaba National will be first with a complete computer operation in the Upper Peninsula.

It's an intriguing possibility. Wonder if robot tellers smile?

Neglect Kills White Birches

EAST LANSING (AP) — Thousands of white birch trees in Michigan died of neglect and lack of water in the last year, a Michigan State University scientist says.

As a result of drought, the trees declined in vigor, leaving them susceptible to an infestation of insects known as the bronze birch borer, said MSU's Harold Davidson.

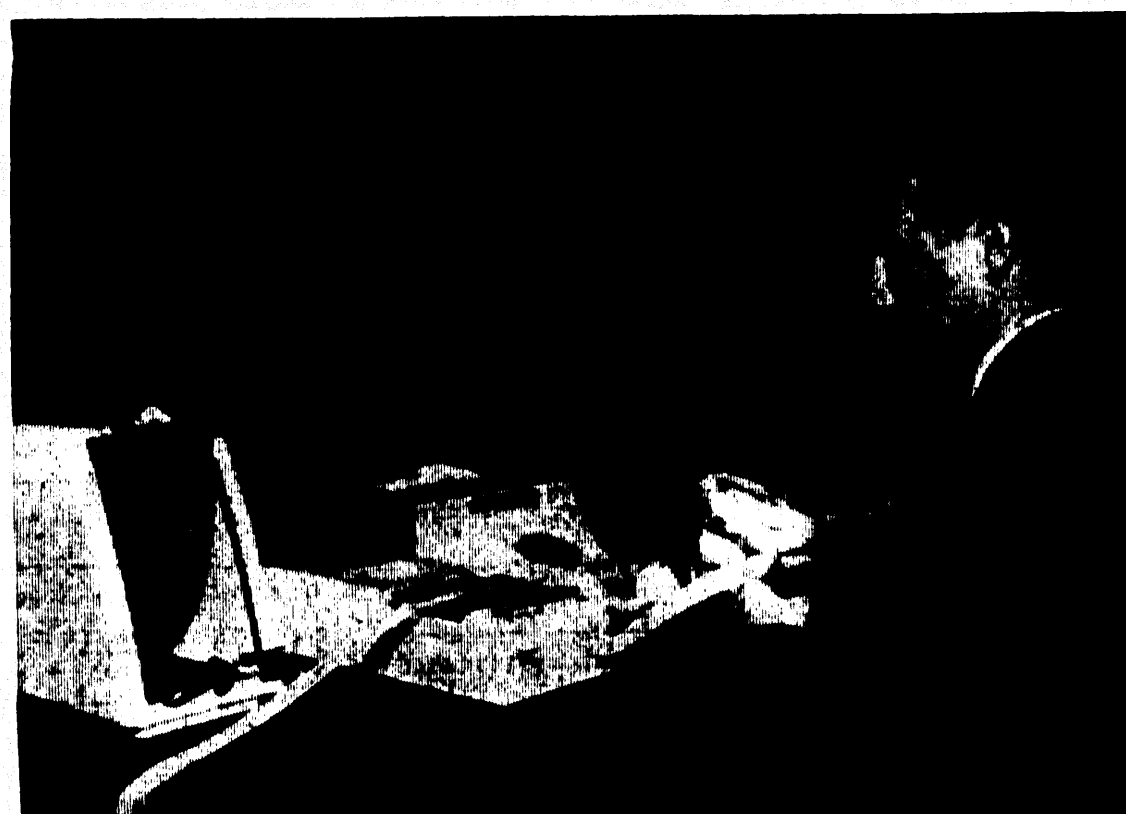

Once the insect has bored beneath the bark, there is no known spray to control it, said William Wallner, an MSU entomologist.

To prevent the insect injury, birch trees should be kept in vigorous growing condition, Davidson said.

Energy flowing through natural gas pipelines each day is equivalent to the daily output of 1,000 Hoover dams.
